State Legionnaires elect commander, auxiliary president from Bay St. Louis

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 has its first state commander and first state American Legion auxiliary president, with both serving at the same time.

Phyllis Moran is the first state auxiliary president from Bay St. Louis and Clayton Thompson is the post's first state commander.

Both were elected at the American Legion's state convention July 10, 11 and 12 in Jackson and will represent Mississippi at American Legion functions across the country.

In addition to having both state commander and state auxiliary president, Post 139 and some of its members received several awards at the convention.

"This is probably the most exciting thing that has ever happened, I think, except for my daughter," said Moran. "The Bay St. Louis unit has been tremendous about supporting me in this."

Moran is a native of Bay St. Louis and is daughter of Mrs. Tuleter Oliver of Bay St. Louis and the late Ulysses Oliver. Her grandmother is Annie Oliver of Bay St. Louis.

Moran is married to William Moran. They have one daughter, Connie Moran of Biloxi.

The new state president retired from A.T.&T. with 20 years of service. "Now my career is the American Legion," she said.

She is a member of American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 since 1972, Our Lady of the Gulf Church, Harrison County Salon of Eight and 40 and La Societe de Femmes auxiliary of 40 and Eight honor society of American Legion.

During her years as an auxiliary member, Moran has served as president for three consecutive years, Ninth District president and as chaplain, historian, second vice president, first vice president and president on the department level.

Moran's theme for this year is "Through Unity with Purpose We Can Make It Happen."

"That simply means that unity of

Dubuisson dump permit approved

The Mississippi Natural Resources Permit Board July 14 approved a permit for Waste Management of Mississippi, Inc. to operate a sanitary landfill for the disposal of non-hazardous waste.

The landfill is to be located in west Harrison County in the Dubuisson community.

Any interested party objecting to the permit may file a written request within 30 days for a formal hearing before the Permit Board; otherwise, the terms and conditions of this permit shall become final.

The Permit Board is composed of representatives, most of them scientists, from seven divisions of state government and meets regularly to issue, modify, revoke, or deny permits to control air and water pollution and also to manage solid and hazardous wastes in the state.

Planning body rejects medical-office zoning

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Following a public meeting Tuesday to discuss a proposed zoning change for property facing the hospital along Drinkwater Road, the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Committee voted 3-2 against recommending approval of the zoning change.

The commission did not act on a formal motion but simply voted for or against to indicate its opinion to the city council which is expected to discuss the issue at its next meeting July 21.

The proposed change would have resulted in a Medical-Office zoning for six lots facing Drinkwater Road.

This issue, in various forms, has been discussed several times by the board in the past two years.

J. P. Compretta, serving as spokesman for residents opposed to the zoning change, presented petitions signed by residents to the zoning board.

"This issue has been discussed, cussed and presented several times and nearly every adjoining land owner is opposed to the zoning change," Compretta said.

"We are asking the commission to listen to the request of residents in the neighborhood," he continued.

Property Owner Harold Zeugin said the Environmental Protection Agency had discovered runoff from septic tanks in area ditches a few months ago.

He added he did not think there is adequate sewerage in the area to support doctor's offices.

"My concern is that the change should benefit the whole community, not just a few people," resident Gary Yarborough said.

Commissioners William Tate and Gordon Boh voted in favor of the change.

Tate said the commission had been studying this for more than a year and he believes it is in the best interest of the community as a whole.

County accepts petition for sewer district addition

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has accepted a petition requesting the addition of part of Beat Four to Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1.

The petition requesting the addition was accepted by the supervisors Monday and no objections were received at a public hearing.

The next step is a 30-day advertisement of the board's intent to add the area to the district, then conduct another hearing, according to Lucien Gex, attorney for the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

Gex describes the addition to the county district as a section of property along Longfellow Road between Highway 603 and the Waveland city limits. The expansion will go as far as Four Dollar Bayou at the upper end of Bayou La Croix, near Bayou Phillip Road.

The original county district is entirely within Beat Five, but Beat Four Supervisor Sam Pernicaro said residents of the adjacent area in Beat Four had asked him to request the addition.

He is delaying his appointment to the county wastewater district board of commissioners until after a second public hearing.

The original county district is between the northern boundaries of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Jordan River, Gex said.

The county will contract with the regional wastewater district for treatment of sewerage, and will construct a collection system with help from federal and state funds, the attorney added.

The next public hearing on the district will be Aug. 14 at 9:30 a.m. during a regular board of supervisors meeting.

The construction of the county's first publicly owned sewage collection system outside the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland is the fourth segment of the regional wastewater district's current improvement project, which will also eventually link the Bay St. Louis and Waveland collection systems with the waveland wastewater plant as primary treatment facility.

According to Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar, who also serves as the county's representative to the regional wastewater district board, the county will pay the entire share of the local cost of Segment IV.

Kellar's remarks were made in response to a recent controversy involving a $150,000 loan out of state funds to the county by the regional wastewater district.

He explained that the money, which came from a $500,000 windfall of state loan funds the county had not expected to receive, has been set aside to help the county, if necessary, pay some Segment IV costs before the end of the current fiscal year.

Federal funds administered through Farmer's Home Administration had been expected to cover the costs, which must be paid before the end of the fiscal year, but the funding has been delayed.

Gex told the supervisors that the district is currently working on obtaining the easement necessary for Segment IV.

Telephone 'words' can be listed in directory

South Central Bell reports subscribers can now list phone numbers as a word instead of a number—providing the word is not obscene.

Using the new service, the letters on the telephone dial or touch pad can create a word from the telephone number. Dial H-A-I-R-C-U-T for the barbershop...F-L-O-W-E-R-S for a florist.

"Personalized numbers can spell out anything—names, jobs, acronyms, special number combinations, or whatever strikes your fancy," said Pat Santucci, local manager.

And that's how your number will be listed in the telephone directory, she added.

Stylist Service costs $3.50 a month for business telephones. To get a special number, there is an additional one-time special search and assign charge of $34 if the current number spells a word, there is no search and assign charge.

Once subscribed to the service, the monthly charge is in effect for at least a year, from directory to directory. There are a few limitations on the word or letters which can be used, however. The word must have seven letters or a seven digit/letter combination that corresponds to the telephone number.

The word containing Q or Z cannot be used because those letters aren't on the telephone dial. And the word cannot be profane or obscene.

In addition, the number must be available. Only one customer can use the word F-L-O-W-E-R-S, for example.

"These personalized telephone numbers are a response to consumer desires to creatively express themselves," said Santucci. "It's a logical extension of prestige auto license plates."

Santucci added that some business customers have used a word to advertise their telephone numbers for years. Now they'll be able to list the number that way in the telephone directory.

"Businesses like numbers that are easy for their customers to remember," Santucci concluded.

Old car warranty protection varies

The Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection warns car buyers that as of July 1, not all automobiles are under warranty when they are purchased.

A new law passed during the last session of the legislature took the implied warranty off of cars which are over six model years old or which have been driven more than 75,000 miles. The state's implied warranty law requires that any merchandise be fit for the purpose for which it is sold. By removing older model cars from this requirement, the new law leaves buyers of these cars with no warranty protection.

However, says JoAnn McLeod of the Consumer Protection Division, the law requires the seller to give written notice to the buyer that there is no warranty. If the buyer is not informed in writing, then the implied warranty is in effect.

A copy of the approved Notice of Exclusion or Modification of Implied Warranty that must accompany each sale can be obtained by writing the Office of Consumer Protection, 113 North State Street, Jackson, Mississippi, 39205, or by calling (601) 354-6018.

Mississippi. We need the help of communities across the state; we need everyone so we can reach as many young people as possible," Moran said.

"We want to tell the drug dealers we mean business. We want the young people of Mississippi to live healthy and productive lives and this is just not possible when drugs are involved. Drugs destroy not only the abusers, but their families and the entire community as well."

"This is a very exciting experience for me too," Thompson said. "I've been campaigning for this for three years but it has really been intensive since this past January, when I started covering the entire state almost on a daily basis."

"I've been hitting all the towns, big and little, and talking to post officers in every one."

Thompson, a native of Hartford, Conn., is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force who served from 1950 to 1954 during the Korean Conflict.

He moved to Mississippi in the 1950s and entered civil service in 1956, working for the Department of Defense at Keesler Air Force Base. He retired in 1986 with a combined federal service record of 35 years.

While at Keesler, Thompson received several honors including Mississippi Civil Service employee of the year, KAFB manager-educator of the year and several outstanding service awards.

He is married to the former Rose Ann Daugherty of Bay St. Louis and is father of nine children and three step-children. In addition, he has 19 grandchildren.

Thompson has been a member of American Legion for 28 years, all in Post 139. He has served in all offices and committees on the post level including two years as post commander.

On the district level, he has served as executive committeeman, vice commander for three years, and ninth district commander. He has also served two years as Southern Area commander and 10 years as state Americanism chairman and as national committeeman for Americanism.

He is presently serving as national vice-chairman on the foreign relations committee.

In addition, he is a member of the Legion's 40 and Eight honor society, for which he has served three terms as chef de guerre and is outgoing Southern Area chief de train.

As state commander, Thompson has set out five objectives for the coming year, including increasing membership, increasing committee involvement, streamlining the Legion's operations in the state, expanding Legion programs and increasing the awareness of all Legionnaires regarding what is being done on the state level.

Membership in Mississippi has reached 24,400 and Thompson hopes to increase it to more than 25,000. Of those Legionnaires, more than 500 belong to Post 139, which also has about 300 members in its auxiliary and has already reached its 1988 membership target.

Thompson stated that he hopes to get some of the smaller American Legion posts in the state involved in programs the larger posts have, including the Americanism program.

Also, the Legion in Mississippi plans to begin working with Project Literacy U.S. and with its own auxiliary's drug and alcohol awareness programs.

This is only the third time in Mississippi in which the state commander and auxiliary president have been from the same post, Moran said.

"We hope to make the community very proud of what we do," she added.

The two were elected by about 600 Legionnaires and auxiliary members attending the convention, where guest speakers included Congressman Sonny Montgomery of Mississippi, National American Legion Commander Bill Detweiler of Louisiana, Southern Division National American Legion Auxiliary Vice-President Vivian Burly and several gubernatorial candidates.

At the convention, the Legionnaires passed a resolution in support of Lieutenant Colonel Oliver North and agreed to send a copy and telegram to North, President Ronald Reagan and to American Legion National Headquarters.

At the convention of 40 and Eight, held in conjunction with the Legion convention, John Rutherford Jr. of Bay St. Louis, a past Southern Area commander, passed a similar resolution, Thompson reported.

Also participating in the convention program was Lou Wilkerson of Post 139, who has been serving as the state's Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution chairperson.

Post 139 also supplied a color guard consisting of Anna Brehm and Patricia Gillan and Chaplain Roslyn Weathers provided the opening prayer and Auxiliary President Mattie North read congratulatory messages to the two winning candidates.

Awards to the post and its auxiliary included one to Weathers, named outstanding auxiliary member for Mississippi, Outstanding Auxiliary Unit of the Year; president's award of excellence for chaplain's report; first place, children and youth programs; second place, community service; second place, education; first place, membership; certificate of appreciation, auxiliary emergency fund; certificate for outstanding service to the Department of Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation; Certificate of Appreciation from the Ninth District president for outstanding service; a plaque for Gold Unit membership, July 1, 1988 to July 1, 1987; first place Poppy program centerpiece; first place Poppy program posters; first place Poppy program corsages; National Award for outstanding Americanism program; National Award for membership in Post 139's division; and commendations for starting the only American Legion baseball team in Southern Mississippi.

Legion convention attendees from Post 139 in addition to Thompson included Bill Moran, Bill Taylor, D.W. North, Jesse Burns, Richard Brehm, Retis King, Bob Givens, Henry Prevou, Al Summy, John Rutherford Jr., John Wilkerson, Roland Wohlschlegel, Gus Aime, Horace Ruhr and Elmer Boyd.

Auxiliary members in addition to Moran, Weathers, North, Wilkerson, Gillan and Brehm included Rose

Ann Thompson, Hazel Wohlschlegel, Oris Blanchard, Evelyn Burns, Christy LaFontaine, Connie Moran and Kathy Santenelli.

Four members of the auxiliary's junior unit were selected as state officers. They include Amy Oliver, 15, first vice president; Alsha LaFontaine, 13, second vice president; Kelly Oliver, 13, secretary; and Jennifer Kingston, 12, chaplain.

The group received an award for outstanding service and dedication to youth.

Other junior members attending included Shealee LaFontaine, Joy Gillan, Pat Travira, Jessica Santenelli, Schellisa Ladner and Paula Jacobson.

Thompson and Moran were provided with cars for their travels. They and Weathers will represent the state at a national auxiliary meeting in San Antonio, Texas, in August. In addition, Thompson will attend a seminar in Indianapolis, Ind., for new state commanders.

ches on each parcel of property involved in the easement acquisition process, and attorneys are now working on those titles, Gex explained.

In addition, people granting easements must be allowed a property appraisal if they want one because the district must follow the same procedures required for highway easements and relocations because the project is federally funded and therefore falls under the federal relocation act, the attorney said.

If eminent domain procedures have to be initiated against any of the landowners, the resulting delay would delay construction only on their property.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has set an Aug. 1 deadline for acquisition of the easements, the attorney added.

We have to apologize to our many subscribers for being late with last Sunday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo because of mechanical problems.

There are three telephone lines coming into our office and we answered over 500 telephone calls. We know we also missed answering several other calls because of the number coming in at one time. Hopefully the problems will not happen again.

Just think! The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 of Bay St. Louis is the home post of the Department of Mississippi Commander, and the Ladies Auxiliary Unit is the home of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit State President.

Congratulations are in order for Department Commander Clayton Thompson and also for Auxiliary Unit President Phyllis Moran.

This is the first time Bay St. Louis has ever had a Department Commander and a State Auxiliary President, much less to have both during the same year.

We know both parties have worked very hard over the years preparing themselves for their respective tasks and should do a commendable job.

Many of the areas old timers are still commenting about the quietness of the politics with the Primary Elections only a short time from now.

Maybe things will liven up during the final two weeks of the campaigns.

Even on a statewide basis, the election seems to be very quiet.

One thing of interest about the August Primaries, the polls will be open until 7 p.m. this time.

This will give persons working out of town an opportunity of voting when they return from work.

So the polls are scheduled to be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

House approves travel payment, health care, jobs bills

WASHINGTON—By a vote of 420 to 1, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill that would reinstate the travel allowance for certain veterans traveling to and from Veterans Administration medical facilities for care and treatment.

The VA earlier this year sharply curtailed eligibility for the travel allowance, leaving "hardly anybody" qualified to obtain it, according to Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery (D-MS), who chairs the House Veterans' Affairs Committee.

Rep. Gerald Solomon (R-NY), the committee's Ranking Minority Member, called the VA-imposed regulations now in effect "an insult to the men and women who put their lives on the line."

Montgomery and Solomon say the bill sends a strong bipartisan message to the Administration that the Congress is going to make certain that veterans have reasonable access to VA medical care.

The bill, H.R. 2327, would require the VA to provide travel payments to the following:

- 1) service-connected veterans for treatment of their service-connected disabilities;
- 2) service-connected veterans who are disabled 50 percent or more, for treatment of any disability;
- 3) veterans who receive or who are eligible to receive VA pension benefits;
- 4) veterans who need but cannot afford special mode transportation, such as ambulances or wheelchair vans; and
- 5) any other person the VA determines to be unable to afford transportation.

The House also approved the following measures:

H. R. 2618—establishes an entitlement to outpatient care for veterans for their service-connected conditions. Veterans rated at a 50 percent or greater disability level and former prisoners of war would be entitled to outpatient treatment for any condition.

Other so-called "Category A" veterans would be entitled to outpatient treatment in order to avoid the use of a hospital bed and to complete treatment begun in the hospital.

This group includes veterans exposed to certain herbicides and ionizing radiation, veterans of the Spanish-American War, Mexican border period, or World War I, and non-service-connected veterans with one dependent whose income does not exceed $18,234 (or $15,195 for a single veteran).

Under current law, the VA is authorized to provide outpatient care to Category A and all other eligible veterans on a discretionary basis; it may be denied.

—prevents the VA from relocating any readjustment counseling center (Vet Center) from a storefront site to VA hospital grounds without first submitting to the Committee plans and justification for the move. Congress would then have 120 days to review the plan before it could be implemented.

—extends authority for the VA to provide adult day health care, to pay premium wages to nurses who work on Saturdays, and to set the pay scale for pharmacists.

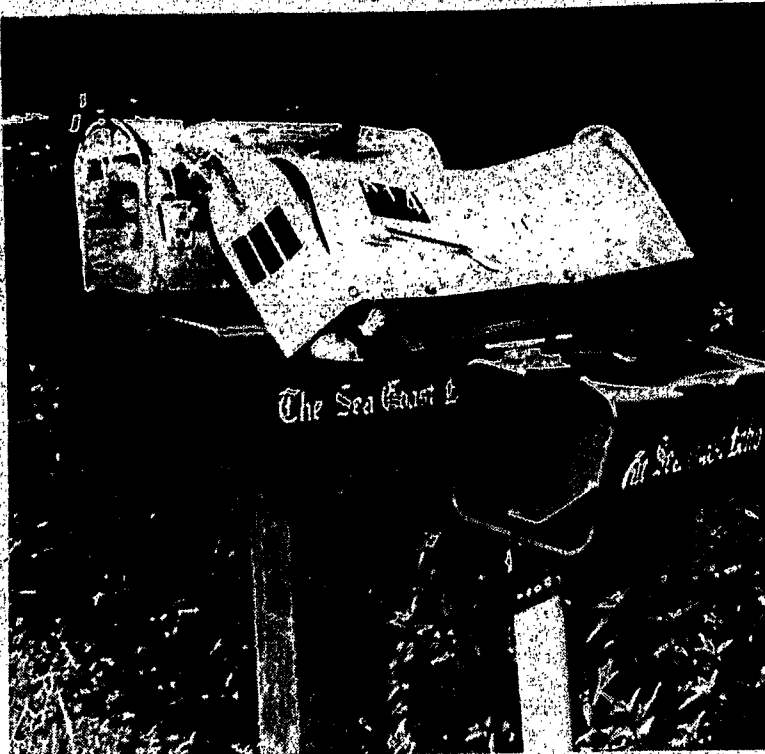

H.R. 1504—extends to Veterans' Job Training Act, which reimburses employers who train and hire long-term unemployed veterans to apply through Sept. 30, 1990, for training under the three and one-half year old program.

The current deadline for applications is July 2, 1987. The measure would also extend from Jan. 2, 1988 to March 30, 1991, the date by which a veteran must be enrolled in an approved program of job training. H. R. 1504 also authorizes $210 million in program funding over the next three fiscal years.

"The Committee is pleased that 48 thousand veterans have reentered the labor force under the Veterans' Job Training Act, but that is no reason to let it expire," said Montgomery. "The fact that others have found work is small comfort to some 300 thousand veterans of the Vietnam era who were still looking for jobs in May of this year," he said.

Other so-called "Category A" veterans would be entitled to outpatient treatment in order to avoid the use of a hospital bed and to complete treatment begun in the hospital.

This group includes veterans exposed to certain herbicides and ionizing radiation, veterans of the Spanish-American War, Mexican border period, or World War I, and

Gas leak a threat to safety

July 9, 1987
Dear Sir,

I have repeatedly read where the mayor has blamed the increased cost of city government on many things, including the additional cost of gas to the city.

A number of people on Ramaneda Street have notified the utility department of a serious and dangerous gas leak on our street, to no avail.

This has been going on for weeks.

Citizen planning campaign sign removal after election

Dear Editor,

The recent controversy about the posting of political signs on trees, poles and public property has seemed to overlook the simple solution...take them down.

While it is fine to harp on the legal aspects of this practice, all the effort to stem this vertical litter could be used to remove the problem all together, at the source. If you see posters that make your neighborhood look tacky, stop, get out, and pull it down. But, don't be partisan, pull all of them down.

I don't happen to agree with the law as it reads. I think posters should be allowed for politicking and other charitable functions, but with the stipulation that they be removed after the function or election, with equal zeal.

The law could impose fines for the organization or individual that is advertised if they are not down within a given time, the fine being equal to the amount of time the city/county has to spend to clean up the signs.

I'm attempting to put together a group of concerned citizens who would be willing to go out with me after the elections and take down all the signs.

I think a couple early morning jaunts with five or 20 people would have Bay St. Louis rid of all the election signs (and the rest of the festival signs).

So, if you wish to help, at your own time and pace, contact me.

Wouldn't it be nice to wake up one morning and not have this town look like New Orleans? After all, I know what it means to leave New Orleans!

Sincerely yours,
Mark Mason

National Cemeteries established by President Lincoln

July 8, 1987
Editor

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

An anniversary is being celebrated this month which deserves notice. Just 125 years ago, with the country embroiled in a civil war, the 37th Congress passed and President Lincoln signed, legislation creating national cemeteries. Twelve cemeteries were established.

Five years were spent after the war recovering and identifying dead from battlefields, churchyards and other locations where hasty combat interments had been made. Nearly 300,000 remains were reinterred in national cemeteries.

As the numbers of those who served the country have increased, the national cemetery system has grown. It is now operated by the Veterans Administration. There are 110 national cemeteries located in 38 states and Puerto Rico.

In Biloxi National Cemetery, 4,417 veterans and their dependents are buried. In the first six months of this year, 200 were interred. We believe we will have grave space in this cemetery through 1995.

At the same time, the Veterans Administration is building other national cemeteries to meet the nation's promise to those who served. This year, a new national cemetery was opened at Ft. Mitchell, Ala.; another will open this fall in West Virginia, near Prineytown, while still another will open next spring in Sumter County, Fla.

Dignified burial in this well-maintained national shrine is available to all veterans discharged under conditions other than dishonorable as well as to certain dependents of veterans. We provide headstones or markers for all those the nation honors by their interment here.

We find it interesting that there is one Civil War veteran interred in the Biloxi National Cemetery, Mr. Isaac B. Bennett, who was a Private in Company E of the First Pennsylvania Provincial Cavalry, he enlisted in January 1864 and was discharged in July 1865. Mr. Bennett died January 28, 1937 in the Biloxi VA Hospital. Also, there are six veterans of the Indian Wars period (from 1861 to 1898) interred in this cemetery.

We also find it interesting that the Biloxi National Cemetery was originally established as a VA Hospital Cemetery in March 1934. The first veteran interred in the cemetery was Mr. Edgar Ambrose Ross, who served as a Private in the First Regiment of the Tennessee Infantry during the Spanish American War.

When the Veterans Administration assumed authority over National Cemeteries in 1973, all VA Hospital Cemeteries were converted to National Cemeteries - which resulted in the renaming of the Biloxi VA Hospital Cemetery to the Biloxi National Cemetery.

We always welcome visitors. The cemetery grounds are open to visitors from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. The cemetery office, which is located in Building 18 at the Biloxi VA Medical Center, is open weekdays 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sincerely,
JIMMY T. JACKSON

JACKSON—Each of the 10 governor's races I have covered has been slightly different from the others, but I can't remember any race with all the facets of the one that is now rounding into the home stretch.

To begin with, there has never been a race for governor in my experience that has had so many major candidates or as many well-known persons bidding for perhaps the weakest governor's chair in the nation.

Consider the fact that the eight-man Democratic field contains two incumbent statewide elected officials and five candidates who have previously made races for governor. Impressive, indeed.

In the two-man Republican primary Tupelo businessman Jack Reed, with good statewide name recognition, and a background of public service, appears an easy winner over Doug Lemon, an investment counselor in Jackson, who lives in suburban Richland.

It is obvious why people are having a great deal of difficulty making up their minds how they will vote on Aug. 3, certainly in the Democratic field.

The high percentage of undecided Democratic voters at this late stage of the race, as shown by the opinion polls (and this has been the most thoroughly polled campaign I've ever seen) reflects more than usual reluctance of voters to commit themselves to any one candidate.

Undecided started out a month or so ago around 40 percent, and has run as high as 36 percent in some polls in June. It was 24 percent in the poll commissioned by 10 newspapers and television stations conducted the last couple days in June and the first

Glorification of Oliver North an affront to good Americans

July 2, 1987
To the Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

The article published on the front page of the Sun Herald Sunday about the two Hattiesburg realtors and their thought of supporting "Ollie for President" was a putdown to me, an American.

It didn't deserve being published, much less front page.

Anyone who can call Oliver North quote, "all American," has a warped opinion of what American character should be.

To them it obviously means lying and deceit are okay until caught.

Then raise your right hand, and swear to tell the truth and you're exonerated. What happened to principles?

I find it impossible to believe O. North even under oath. Hearing him tell about the lies he told and the cover-up brings to mind the words of the immortal Shakespeare:

"Oh what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive."

I think most Americans realize covert operations exist, but in North's own words, "If this is to be a government of law, covert actions must reflect the will of the people."

The will of the people at that time was clear and stated by Congress, "No aid to the Contras at this time."

This man North has portrayed himself in the hearings as calm and collected, yet brazen while admitting deceiving our Congressional leaders on an issue he knew did not have the stamp of approval and then covering his tracks and others' by destroying the evidence so no one will ever know the truth.

The man is radical, to say the least, and not worth any of the praise he is now getting.

It's obvious, given the chance, he would resort to extreme measures to achieve what he thinks should be.

If he did nothing unlawful, why did he bargain for immunity before coming forward? We should hang our head in shame at having him and his constituents as part of our federal administration, surely, not as head of our country. Are you followers as mad as he?

President Reagan has done his share of deceit by denying, at first, trading arms for hostages with a terrorist nation. While in fact, that's exactly what he was doing.

I guess he would resort to plausible desirability on this but I wouldn't accept it because at the same time he was stating repeatedly, after the hijacking of the TWA plane in the opening of '85, "We will not deal with terrorists."

I believe the attack on Libya was because of their supposed involvement in terrorist attacks in various European places, and the Gulf of Sidra incident was an excuse to launch the attack.

How could he be so forceful with a more defenseless and in his words, "terrorist country" and at the same time be dealing with another, Iran. He may have some excuse called memory at times. He can't remember yesterday.

No, we don't want Oliver North or the likes of him to head our country. He's a liar and liars are dangerous. We Americans won't tolerate liars.

An Angry American,
Maxine Wamsley

Phone customers may choose long distance company

South Central Bell customers in Pass Christian and Bayou La Terre can now choose which long distance company they want to carry most of their "1+" and "0+" calls.

This month Pass Christian and Bayou La Terre customers whose numbers begin with 452 and 255 will receive ballots to use in choosing which long distance company they want.

The effort to get customers to choose is part of the plan to provide "equal access," which gives customers their choice of long distance companies for "1+" and "0+" calls.

"The whole idea of equal access is to give customers a choice. It is important that customers take advantage of that choice," said Pat Santucci, district manager.

Each customer should return the ballot to make sure he is signed up with the company he wants to use, Santucci said.

Any customer who does not select a long distance company will have one tentatively assigned to him on a random basis, but he will have a chance to change that assignment.

In October, South Central Bell will send a second ballot to every customer who fails to return the first one. Accompanying the second ballot will be a letter telling the customer which long distance company he has been assigned. By filling out the second ballot and returning it, the customer still may choose a company. Otherwise his long distance calls will begin to go through the company he had tentatively assigned.

The percentage of customers assigned each long distance company will be based on the percentage who selected it on the earlier ballot. For example, if 60 percent of the customers returning the first ballot selected a certain company, 60 percent of those who did not select would be assigned that company.

Four companies are offering "1+" and "0+" long distance service in Pass Christian and Bayou La Terre. They are The Communications Group, US Sprint, AT&T, and MCI.

No matter which long distance company the customer selects as his

Pearl River College adopts record budget

A record $7 million unrestricted operating budget has been adopted by the Pearl River College Board of Trustees for the 1987-88 academic year.

According to Ron Holmes, PRC's business manager, the $7,007,709 budget which went into effect July 1, is the initial estimate for the new fiscal year.

The '87-'88 budget represents an increase of $764,644 over the 1986-87 revised operating budget of $6,243,065.

Pearl River's revenue is derived from five sources, including student fees, county, state and federal support and campus sales.

Because PRC's enrollment was a record last year, and indications are it will be even higher this fall, state support is expected to increase by $627,759.

PRC's recent fee and tuition increase should also net the college another $193,091 over last year's student fees.

County support is expected to increase by $35,000 from $840,000 to $875,000. Federal support is expected to decline by $190,000 on paper as a new accounting procedure channels the federal funds through state agencies and then to Pearl River College.

Holmes said he expected sales and services to remain about the same as last year. In 1986-87 the figure was $198,600.

PRC student fees make up 19 percent of the new budget. PRC's tuition was increased from $250 to $275 a semester, however, Pearl River students should still be paying the lowest tuition in the state.

Allocations for salaries are up $356,000 as across-the-board pay raises were approved. Other increased expenditures from the unrestricted operating budget include a $100,000 increase in the operation of the plant ($950,006) and $82,000 in institutional support ($971,333).

Last year there was a contingency reserve of $22,614 while the adopted '87-'88 budget has a $145,763 reserve.

The college district includes the main campus at Poplarville and vocational-technical centers in Hancock, Forrest and Lamar Counties. Also, in the district are Jefferson Davis and Marion Counties.

Support from tax millage in the six counties range from a low of $70,000 a year from Jefferson Davis to a high of $200,000 from Forrest County.

Contributions from Hancock and Pearl River Counties are budgeted at $170,000 and $165,000 for the coming academic year.

Marion County is expected to contribute $150,000 and Lamar $120,000. Total county support is $875,000 or 12 percent of the budget.

Of the new budget, nearly $4 million is allocated to salaries and $717,750 to faculty and staff fringe benefits.

Money earmarked for scholarships to attract students is up from $227,700 to $249,100. Pearl River provides scholarships based on the American College Test scores and class rank for valedictorians and salutatorians. Athletic and many support scholarships are also provided.

Other funds not included in the current unrestricted operating fund include the current restricted Pell Grant fund for $974,394; the restricted fund for the Job Training Partnership Act for $151,313; the restricted Federal Work Study fund for $85,225; the Enlargement and Improvement Plant fund for $293,000 and the Plant Construction fund for $1,184,000.

Auxiliary funds for food service, residential facilities and the bookstore total $1,121,500.

Two arrested, charged in marijuana sale

BY DENA BISNETTE

Two Louisiana men have been arrested in Hancock County on charges of sale of a controlled substance.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner, Johnny F. Johnson, 52, and Hugh Bihm Jr., both of Krotz Springs, La., were arrested at about 5:30 a.m. Sunday at the Mississippi Welcome Center at Interstate-10 and Highway 607.

Ladner said he had purchased about two pounds of marijuana for $2,000 from the two men during a two-day investigation in which he was assisted by Investigator Glen Strong and Deputy Steve Garber.

Seized in addition to the drug were two handguns and about $1,000 in cash.

Both men were charged with one count each of sale of a controlled substance, according to Ladner.

Johnson was out on $10,000 bond Tuesday afternoon and Bihm was still in jail on a $5,000 bond, the investigator added.

Port, harbor commission discuss prospect

Business conducted at Monday's Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission meeting in open session only took a few minutes.

The commission simply approved the past month's docket of claims and minutes from meetings on June 8 and 22.

However the board had a lengthy discussion on a prospective tenant in an executive session.

Port and Harbor Director Harold Olsen said information on the prospect may be available in the next couple of weeks.

The board scheduled a recess meeting for July 21 at 2 p.m. at the commission office near the intersection of US-90 and Highway 603.

Camp Stanislaus offers fun in many shapes

by CHARLES SCHUTT

Camp Stanislaus, a boys fun and academic summer camp, has been in operation since the early 1930's under the direction of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart at St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis.

The Stanislaus campus is home to about 160 campers and 40 counselors from as far away as Texas, Mexico, and Guatemala for six weeks out of the summer.

Brother Noel Lemmon, SC is camp director.

With an emphasis on water sports, the camp grants boys from the ages of eight to 14 years the opportunity to participate in activities ranging from waterskiing and sailing to trail hikes and horseback riding.

Gulf of Mexico winds fuel a sailing program with a fleet of 14 sailboats featuring Hovie Cat, Sunfish, Harpoon, and O'Day sailboats.

The program involves teaching the campers to sail solo on Sunfish sailboats.

Camp Stanislaus also introduces the campers to sailing more complex sailboats such as the catamarans and the O'Day. This year's camp has added to its fleet a pair of windsurfing boards to teach the fast-growing sport.

Maintaining the emphasis on water sports, Camp Stanislaus owns 12 motoboots, four of which are used for fishing expeditions to the Louisiana marshes with the remaining eight used in the water skiing program.

Stanislaus lets students who may have never touched a pair of skis learn the basics of two skis and the tricks of slalom skiing.

The camp also features a National Rifle Association shooting class in a 50-foot rifle range, a hobbies class that teaches ceramics and paper art, a go-cart track, and recreation halls with ping-pong, pool, air hockey, and foosball tables.

Among off-campus activities, Camp Stanislaus offer horseback riding, canoeing, hikes, trips to the McCloud Water Park and Buccaneer State Park, plus trips bowling and to the beach.

Campers are also taken on field trips to such places as Wet Willies water slides, Buccaneer Park Wave Pool, Ship Island, and the Audubon

Bassin' with the pros

by Trey Foerster

Flex the reflexes for good bass action

One of the most important reasons why bass strike is called "reflex action." Although a misnomer—the bass are really reacting—the ability to produce a reflex strike can increase your catch of bass.

According to some bass pros, about one-quarter of their catches are a result of inducing a reflex action. That's one out of every four bass! Simply stated, a reflex action is a reaction by the bass to a lure. And the best lures to use throughout the year are a spinnerbait and a crank bait. For particular use in the spring, a crank bait with a bass pattern is recommended.

"Bass will eat baby bass," states David Wharton, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "In the post-spawn period, probably one of the best baits to use would be one with a baby bass pattern—be it a crank bait or top water bait. Bass will feed on themselves during the post-spawn period, so that particular pattern is a good one to use. Then you kind of match that pattern with the type of water you're fishing."

There's a bit of bassin' psychology to use when seeking the reflex strike. First, bass need shade for their eyes, so they will pick a sunlight-sheltered spot adjacent to some structure. Second, as a predator, the bass situates itself in an ambush position. The bass wants to be able to hide from baitfish.

So, the angler must think about the position of a bass to be successful at prompting a reflex strike. Ask yourself, "Now, if I was a bass, where would I find a great place to ambush baitfish and not have to be in the sun?" Additionally, if there is a wind or current, you can be sure that the bass will be facing into it.

Once you've decided where the bass is and what direction it's facing, now's the time to work that lure so it hits it on the head! Literally try to bring the lure right onto the head of the bass if you can. This presentation means that the bass can either move out of its way or strike out at the lure in a reflex action.

In clear water, the best time to capitalize on this reflex action is when the water is between 45 and 65 degrees; in muddy water temperatures of 60 to 90 degrees are best. Finally, you will most often be able to produce a reflex strike from bass in two to six feet of water.

Gasoline can go stale if not stored correctly, according to service technicians at Outboard Marine Corporation. If you plan to put your boat away for an extended period of time (more than a few weeks) they suggest treating your gasoline supply with a fuel stabilizer such as OMC's 2+4 Fuel Conditioner.

Adding a stabilizer helps prevent the formation of gum and varnish deposits

Weekly State Crop Report

Rains and humidity cause problems

MISSISSIPPI STATE— The state's major agricultural crops began the traditionally dry months of July and August with adequate moisture and strong healthy plants, but moisture levels good for some crops can be damaging for others.

Rains and high humidity levels have stalled hay making in some areas and is causing some producers to loose the quality of their hay before they can get it baled, according to Dr. Lamar Kimbrough, an agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Most producers don't have enough hay baled yet to get them through the year, but there is still time to make hay," Kimbrough said.

The agronomist said when producers cut hay and are forced by weather conditions to leave that hay on the ground for several days or even weeks before baling it, the quality of the hay drops.

"Producers just can't bale hay with the high humidity levels and overcast days we have been having," Kimbrough said.

But the rains have been good for grazing pastures and according to Kimbrough, some pastures in the state could use even more rain.

"We don't have any really drought-stressed pastures at this point, but some pastures could use rains," he said.

Many dairy farmers in the state are getting ready to cut and make silage for next year's feed supply and most producers have a good crop of corn and sorghum to use.

"Corn and sorghum got off to a bad start in south Mississippi this year, but good rainfall has helped these crops develop into some of the best corn and sorghum for silage that we have had in some time," Kimbrough said.

In related agriculture news, county Extension agents throughout the state said most major crops are from good to excellent, with insect and weed control the major concern among producers.

In Chickasaw County in north

Mississippi, County Extension Agent William Johnson said the soybean crop is excellent and the cotton crop is good despite insect problems.

"Hay is a problem in the county now," Johnson said. "Everybody has hay ready to cut and those that are cutting hay are losing it."

DeSoto County Agent John R.

Blake said cotton, corn and soybeans look good, but weevils and worms are causing problems in cotton.

In south Mississippi, Forrest County Agent Malcolm Broome said rainfall has been spotty and the corn crop could use a good overall rain.

In Jasper County, Extension

Agent Ed Williams said corn, sorghum and soybeans are growing well, but weeds are becoming a problem in some fields.

Walthall County Agent Louis Crawford said farmers are trying to harvest hay but weather conditions are unfavorable. He also said corn silage producers are getting equipment ready to begin harvesting next week.

In Franklin County, Extension Agent Ray Reynolds said most crops look good, but rains are getting farmers behind the weed control.

"Producers are also behind with hay cutting because of rains," Reynolds said.

Hospital offers program for teenage girls

'Girls Talk' is an innovative program offered by Garden Park Community Hospital for girls age 14-18.

"We at Garden Park realize that adolescence is a difficult time period. You feel like an adult and, yet, are still treated like a child. Girls Talk attempts to bridge this gap," said spokesman Tara Bazzone.

Girls Talk will last for three consecutive Tuesdays during the month of July. Each session will encompass a different aspect of teenage life.

The second session of Girls Talk entitled 'Your Body And You' will be Tuesday, July 21, from 2-4 p.m. in Garden Park's Dining Garden.

This session will provide valuable information concerning both the physical and psychological aspects of the human body.

Topics will include "The Art of Saying No," "Contraceptives and You," and "Communicated Diseases." Rose Bahannon, RN, a staff nurse at Garden Park, will lead the program.

Girls Talk is a free community health program offered by AMI Garden Park Community Hospital. For more information or reservations, please call 865-1353 from 8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Council to set standards for student exchange programs

RESTON Va.—While student exchange trips to foreign countries can open new educational doors, parents and students should do their homework before selecting an exchange program.

To help them, the Council on Standards for International Education Travel (CSIET) has issued a set of standards and a listing of 33 exchange and travel programs that requested evaluation and met the CSIET guidelines.

"Student exchanges have always provided an outstanding learning opportunity for students who chose to participate," said Douglas W. Hunt, chairman of the CSIET board of directors, and associate executive director, National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

"The provide a close look at other countries and cultures and help us understand the uniqueness of people from other lands."

"Today the biggest danger to students traveling abroad is not terrorism, but poorly planned, ill defined exchange and travel programs," said Hunt. "That's why this group has issued its second set of guidelines."

CSIET released nine standards today which ranged from choosing students to insurance. They included participant selection, participant placement, organizational profile and educational perspective, promotion, insurance, operations, financial strength, adherence to government regulations, and agreement to an annual review by CSIET.

"There are many, many high quality exchange programs," points out H. David Fry, chairman of the CSIET subcommittee which evaluated the programs. "Yet, there have been cases where students were not provided appropriate lodging for their stay or where sponsoring organizations went bankrupt before a student participated in his or her exchange after paying for it."

"Clearly we expect that the organizations listed serve educational purposes and that they accurately represent themselves in advertising and other promotion," said Fry.

In selecting students, the CSIET requires that groups use "clear criteria, ensure careful screening, and provide sufficient lead time to ensure a likelihood of a successful experience for both the participant and all others involve."

It also is calling for procedures to guard against abuses where schools might recruit students who are outstanding athletes or where students are recruited to provide household domestic service.

In placing participants into programs, organizations must ensure adequate care and supervision.

"We are very concerned that host families be carefully screened and interviewed before being assigned students," said Hunt. "There have been examples in the past where sponsors blindly accepted hosts because they were desperate for homes."

Programs bringing youngsters to the United States must also contact the local school where those youngsters will study well in advance of final home placement. Some exchange students have simply shown up in the school office, according to Hunt.

In operation of exchanges, CSIET is calling for suitable orientation, personal counseling services if needed, support assistance to help with such items as passport questions and language problems, and monthly personal contact with representative of the sponsor, among other items.

The booklet may be ordered from CSIET, 1966 Association Drive, Reston, Va. 22091. The cost is $3.

According to U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates, the job classification with the most openings likely between now and 1990 is that of computer service technician.

Computer counseling aids career choices

HATTIESBURG—Computers are matching career preferences with job opportunities at the University of Southern Mississippi these days, and students are reaping the benefits.

The university's Career Development Center provides a free, computerized career counseling service that allows students to explore opportunities available in their chosen fields and offers a starting point for those who are undecided.

"All the student has to do is enter his or her preferences, and the computer searches its built-in library to find matches," explained center counselor Lisa Eaton.

She said that to her knowledge, USM is the only institution in the state that offers the SIGI Plus and Discover computer guidance programs for career counseling.

Both computer programs are developed by educational service organizations. SIGI Plus originated with the Educational Testing Service, while Discover was developed by the American College Testing Program.

Eaton said both systems were designed to help students "make the best possible career and educational choices."

From student answers to a variety of questions, the computers provide a list of occupations for consideration, produce facts on occupational skill requirements and job preparation, and render advice on practical problems such as choosing a career field and making plans to get started.

Computers also spit out information on the average salaries for specific occupations and provide outlines of typical job titles that accompany particular careers.

A self-assessment section deals with values, interests and activities students may prefer or may want to avoid in their careers. Income, independence, leisure, prestige, security, variety and leadership also are examined.

Particular occupations can be viewed in terms of advancement, challenge, flexible hours, on-the-job learning, location permanence and contribution to society.

No computer experience is required for participation in the guidance programs, Eaton said, since step-by-step instructions are provided. Printers provide students with hard copies of their best options.

Eaton said more than 570 individuals have used the SIGI Plus system during the last year. She noted the Discover program was not acquired until last month, providing greater computer availability.

Individuals interested in taking advantage of the two computer-based guidance systems should call Eaton at (601) 266-4848 or write the USM Career Development Center at Southern Station Box 5112, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5112. The center is located in Room 104 of the Student Services Building on the USM campus.

USM professor studies Canadian radio system

The University of Southern Mississippi's Dr. James Hall travels to Canada between semesters to study the country's international radio system.

A radio, television and film professor, Hall received a $30,000 grant from the Canadian Embassy in Washington, D.C., to research the history and policies of Radio Canada International in 1987-1988.

Hall's library research included work in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's Archives in Montreal between the fall and spring semesters this school year. He plans to continue his research in the Canadian capital next summer.

"RCI serves shortwave broadcasting which is important because it is the only medium capable of crossing boundaries without interference from target countries. This also is the only medium that provides daily output of news internationally," explained Hall.

"RCI serves as communicating tool for Canadians abroad. They can listen and know what's happening at home. RCI does not broadcast propaganda," he added.

Hall said RCI is not an arm of the government, but operates under CBC, which is a crown corporation owned by the people. Funding for RCI is provided by taxpayers, costing Canadian citizens approximately 50 cents each per year. Unlike American radio, advertisements are rarely aired and do not generate revenue.

RCI's programming has a magazine format of news and features about everyday life in Canada and government-sponsored editorials are prohibited.

Hall said an estimated one-million people listen to RCI in the United States each week. Broadcasting in 12 languages, RCI signals also reach Eastern and Western Europe, the Caribbean, Japan, part of China, South and Central America.

Remedial education added to summer employment program

The 1987 Summer Youth Employment and Training Program will include work experience for approximately 8,500 young Mississippians and remedial education for approximately 2,000 others.

Congress amended the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) last year, requiring that remedial education for economically disadvantaged youths needing the help be added to the work component.

The Mississippi SDA Private Industry Council has contracted with the State Department of Education to provide the remedial education in counties not served by other JTPA youth programs.

JTPA is the federally funded program for job training and development serving economically disadvantaged youths and adults, dislocated workers and senior workers. It is administered in Mississippi through the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

The Private Industry Council, which appropriates JTPA funds for programs in the Mississippi Service Delivery Area (the entire state except Harrison and Hancock counties and the cities of Jackson, Clinton and Pearl) approved $6.3 million for the work experience component and $2.2 million for remedial education. To be eligible for either program, youths must be 16 to 21 and classified as economically disadvantaged based upon the poverty level.

The program begins in June.

Participants in the work experience component will be employed by public or private, non-profit agencies, working 32 to 40 hours per week for eight weeks at minimum wage of $3.35 per hour. They also will receive employability skills training.

Remedial education participants will receive four hours of classroom instruction a day in basic educational skills, eight weeks at five days a week, for a total of 160 hours. They will be paid $1 per hour.

The work component will be administered in Mississippi SDA counties by the Mississippi Employment Security Commission and 20 public and private organizations.

Administering agencies and the counties they will serve include: Pearl River Valley Opportunity - Covington, Forrest, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Lamar, Marion, Pearl River and Perry.

Youths interested in the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program should contact a school counselor or the local administering agency. The administering agencies will certify economic eligibility for the work component and the remedial training and will select participants for the jobs. Local public schools will select the remedial participants from eligible applicants.

Gulf Coast Business Services Corp. administers summer youth employment and other JTPA programs for Harrison and Hancock counties.

Ole Miss names English Department chairman

UNIVERSITY—Dr. Gregory A. Schirmer, a University of Mississippi associate professor of English with background in both literature and journalism, is the new chairman of the Ole Miss Department of English.

Schirmer's appointment by Chancellor Gerald Turner has been approved by the State College Board and becomes effective July 1.

A member of the Ole Miss English faculty since 1984, the 43-year-old Schirmer is a scholar of Irish literature, with three books and numerous research articles to his credit. He reviews books for such publications and Newsday, Christian Science Monitor, Commonwealth, and the Los Angeles Times.

The new chairman earned a bachelor's degree in liberal arts at the University of Illinois, a master's in journalism from Columbia University in 1966, a master's in English at the State University of New York in 1974, and a doctorate in English from Stanford University in 1978. He has taught at Stanford, Vanderbilt and Notre Dame.

Prior to his academic career, Schirmer worked for Newsday in Garden City, N.J., from 1967-74, serving as copy editor, city editor and senior editor. He was a reporter for the Wall Street Journal from 1966-67.

As a literary scholar, Schirmer has authored three books—"The Poetry of Austin Clarke," published in 1983; "Austin Clarke: Selected Essays," scheduled for publication in 1987; and "The Fiction of William Trevor," scheduled for publication in 1988.

TEEN TALK

Alcohol, Drugs On Teens' Minds

By Ann F. Jarratt
4-H Youth Development Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Alcohol, other drugs and tobacco are important issues nationwide. From your questions it seems they are on a lot of minds.

A seventh grader wanted to know, "Why do most teenagers drink and use drugs?" Unfortunately, current statistics tell us that many teenagers do drink and use drugs. A Mississippi survey showed the number of teens using alcohol once a week rose from 11 percent in 1964 to more than 55 percent in 1981. The drug issue has been identified by President and Mrs. Reagan as a national concern. Read on for some of the why's.

A high school student asked, "Why does alcohol attract people?" Good question. Many young people try alcohol just to see what the big deal is. They want to know how it makes one feel and why it's so dangerous that it's illegal for people under 21 to use it.

Some people use it because they think it will make them more "cool," a part of the "in" grown-up crowd, the life of the party. Some use it to feel less scared about things that are happening in their family or to them. Not many people use it so that they can become addicted alcoholics, but that is what actually happens to many.

A high school student was concerned about "how to get a friend to quit drinking beer?" Your friend may believe the myth that you can't become an alcoholic from drinking beer or wine. Wrong! Alcohol is alcohol and it can cause addiction. Also, keep in mind that alcoholism develops faster in teens than in adults. Maybe you could set him or her straight on those points.

Another thought—if your friend really doesn't want to drink but doesn't know how to say "no" without feeling like a jerk, you might both join a "Just Say No" Club. If there's not one in your school, ask a teacher or school counselor to help you start one. Another student wanted to know, "How can you tell if a person is on drugs?" Different drugs cause different symptoms, but there are some general things you can look for. Has your friend's personality seemed to change a lot? Has he or she started running around with a different crowd?

Have grades and school attendance really taken a dive? Does he/she talk a lot about needing more and more money? Is the person having trouble with parents and the law?

Someone else asked, "Should teenagers buy beer?" Not unless they have money they would like to pay a fine with and time to serve a community service sentence. Buying or using any alcoholic beverage is illegal for anyone under 21 years of age.

Conviction can carry a fine of $25-$500 and/or a sentence of up to 30 days community service. Using a fake I.D. to buy alcohol carries the same penalty as underage buying. Anyone buying alcohol for or making it available to someone under 21 carries a possible $100-$500 fine and/or a sentence of up to 30 days community service.

BACKYARD WILDLIFE HABITAT

For bird watchers and animal observers, spring is an excellent time to find and view that favorite wildlife specimen. Many animals have young and are active during the warm, sunny days.

4-H members in the wildlife project have learned a few secrets to make spotting their favorite animals easier. These 4-H members take part in the backyard wildlife habitat program.

This program encourages everyone, 4-H member, homeowner, teacher and leader, to plan their landscaping with the needs of wildlife in mind. Why? Because wildlife is enjoyed by everyone and because habitat restoration is a critical need for wildlife in urban and suburban settings where building and development infringe on natural areas that wildlife needs in order to thrive.

Providing wildlife habitat in your yard such as food, water, cover and places to raise young, is easy to achieve and the results are beautiful to be around.

As a first step in providing backyard wildlife habitat, you should assess your yard or garden space as it is right now, to identify the habitat elements that already exist for wildlife.

Plants that provide food such as seeds, fruits and nuts are important to birds and squirrels for example.

A dense area of shrubbery or stand of evergreen trees will provide protection from wind and predators. A dying tree in the corner of the yard may provide space for a den of flying squirrels, a family of crested flycatchers or a colony of honey bees.

Plants are the key to attracting wildlife, but water is also important to wildlife for drinking and bathing.

For many types of wildlife, water also offers cover and a place for raising young. Water can be provided in several ways such as with bird-baths, a small pool or simply a natural spring or existing stream.

For more information on Backyard Wildlife Habitat send a post card to: Backyard Wildlife Habitat, Department BHI, 1412 Sixteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036-2266.

Flowering Dogwood
Flowering dogwood is native to the forests of eastern United States. It has long been known for its beautiful springtime floral array, as well as its summer and fall foliage and winter silhouette.

The dogwood has no connection with dogs, but derives its name from "dog," an ancient word that means a skewer to hold meat, a purpose for which it was once used.

With wood that is stronger than hickory, the dogwood is used for golf club heads, mallet heads, chisel handles, weaving shuttles and other uses where tough, strong wood is needed.

Bits of Tree History
The year England and the United States signed peace papers to recognize our new nation, a weary George Washington returned to Mount Vernon. It was 1783 and for six years prior to being selected as our first president, Washington tended his farm.

In his diary of Jan. 12, 1785, he wrote, "rode to my Mill Swamp...in search of the sort of trees I shall want for my walk, groves and wilderness."

The transplants were for his Serpentine Road, with 120 to 150 trees eventually selected.

Today, ten still beautify the grounds and serve as a living link with the first years of our nation.

UNO THEATRE—Tim Daley, center, plays an artist confronted by his enraged future father-in-law (Kevin Erickson) and his toothsome ex-girlfriend (Noel Osigian) in "Black Comedy" at the University of New Orleans Theatre by the Lake. ASCS Report

PAYMENTS ISSUED

To make government-owned grain more available to the market, USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will issue remaining feed grain land diversion payments in commodity certificates.

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office said eligible farmers will receive commodity certificate for their 1987 diverted acres.

"The commodity certificate may be exchanged for designated commodities in CCC inventory," Gennin said. The Commodity Credit Corporation determines the value of the commodities involved at the time of the exchange.

The 1987 Feed Grain Program contained a 20 percent acreage reduction requirement and a 15 percent voluntary paid land diversion. When farmers enrolled in the program they had the option of receiving one half of their land diversion payment either in cash or commodity certificates.

The ASCS official said eligible feed-grain producers will receive final 1987 land-diversion payments after July 15, the final certification date for corn and sorghum.

RESERVE SIGNUP OPENS

The Pearl River-Hancock ASCS Office will open a fifth signup period July 31 for the Conservation Reserve Program. The voluntary program is designed to help farmers prevent or control critical soil erosion and help adjust the production of surplus agricultural commodities.

Gennin said CRP takes highly erodible land out of farming for 10 years and places it into trees or other permanent vegetative cover.

To enroll in the program, applicants must submit bids stating the per acre rental payment they would accept to convey their highly erodible cropland to conserving uses, and also provide a cropping history for 1981 through 1985.

Gennin said the program allows each each farmer to receive up to $50,000 per year, based on the bids per acre and the number of acres under the 10-year contract. Rental payments are made annually to producers with approved contracts, and cost-share payments are made after the approved conservation practice is completed.

"Harvesting, grain, or other commercial use of forage on CRP acres is prohibited," Gennin said. Maintenance measures, such as weed control, are required. Gennin said farmers who decide to return CRP acres to crop production before the end of the 10-year period must repay the government, with interest, all CRP annual rental and cost-share payments.

The national program is saving about 209 million tons of soil annually on 8.2 million acres of land enrolled during 1986.

ACREAGE REPORTS

Acreage reports for 1987 planted, diverted, idled and other farm program acres are currently being accepted at the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office. The final reporting date is July 15, according to county ASCS official Franklin A. Gennin.

"Farmers who meet this deadline will avoid paying a late reporting fee."

Gennin said the entire farm must be certified before program participants can receive price support loans, deficiency payments and other benefits.

Program participants are required to report crops and acreages planted and the uses to be made of these crops, acreage conservation reserve, or idled cropland, and acres diverted for payment. Nonparticipants are encouraged to report their crops to insure future benefits and to protect acreage bases.

After farmers report their acres, the ASCS county office will select farms at random to verify that acreage reports are accurate.

"Certification is most important to producers of quota crops such as tobacco and peanuts," Gennin said. In addition to these crops, however, he said all other crop acreages must be reported.

Spring seeded crops may be certified at any time between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The ASCS official encourages producers to certify as soon as possible after planting and not wait until the July 15th deadline to report their acres.

DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS

Farm program participants and some nonparticipants may be eligible for deficiency payments on 92 percent of their disaster-affected winter wheat, even though none of the land is planted to wheat. The payments are authorized under the 0/92 provision of the Farm Disaster Assistance Act recently signed by the President.

"The deficiency payments are available to eligible winter wheat producers," Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office said.

Winter wheat producers are eligible with no planting requirement.

According to Gennin, farmers who did not enroll in the 1987 acreage reduction program and who have less than 50 percent of the permitted crop acres devoted to wheat he said. Farmers that are enrolled may certify of revise their certification to comply with the 0/92 provisions.

ASCS is accepting applications from nonprogram participants until July 15, 1987.

Additional details on these and other eligibility requirements may be obtained from the local ASCS office.

I SURRENDER! Since when is it a crime to turn 18?

Of course turning 18 isn't a crime at all. However, turning 18 without registering with Selective Service is.

That's why we need your help. We need parents to tell their sons to register with Selective Service within a month of turning 18. And we need teachers, friends, employers and others who can influence these young men to reinforce the message.

Why? Because, for one reason, it's the law. But in addition to risking prosecution by not registering, your son or young friend is disqualifying himself from eligibility for federal student loans, federal employment and job training programs.

America's future security depends upon today's young men registering with Selective Service on time. Every young man must register within 30 days of his 18th birthday by completing a simple form at any post office. You can help. Ask a young man you know if he is registered.

Selective Service Registration. It's Quick. It's Easy. And it's the Law.

Your Pet's Health

Glaucoma And Cataracts Occur In Dogs Also

By Clyde E. Taylor
Leader, Veterinary Medicine
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service
and Associate Professor
College of Veterinary Medicine
Mississippi State University

The lens of the eye performs the same function as the lens in a camera; it focuses images on the retina of the eye. Dogs can have cataracts that are a cloudy white covering the lens.

Cataracts may be hereditary or non-hereditary and will cause blindness when fully developed. Removal of the lens surgically is the only effective treatment in most cases.

Glaucoma is a serious eye disease involving an increase in pressure within the eyeball caused by a variety of problems with the production, transport and absorption of aqueous humor, the fluid within the eye.

Pressure may build up rapidly and cause irreversible damage to the retina and optic nerve within a matter of hours, so the onset of glaucoma is considered an emergency. Treatment must be prompt and specific to prevent eventual loss of vision in the affected eye.

Progressive retinal atrophy is a hereditary loss of retinal function in dogs that first shows up as night blindness. There is no effective treatment known for this disease. Genetically it is a recessive trait with a great many carrier animals capable of transmitting the disease. Affected animals should not be used for breeding.

Abscesses occur behind the eyeball causing the eye to protrude from its socket. This painful condition is often associated with dental problems. Antibiotics and proper drainage are necessary.

Entropion, turning in of the eyelid margin, is a common problem in puppies and usually affects both eyes to varying degrees. Left untreated it may cause chronic keratitis and damage the cornea. Treatment consists of corrective surgery on the affected lids.

The eye is the window of the body and often presents indications of other health problems upon careful examination. Examination of the eye and the diagnosis of eye disease is an important area of veterinary medicine. Consult your veterinarian at the first sign of any eye problems.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Cupid makes sheep's eyes at lucky Rams and Ewes. New romances flourish; established relationships are stronger.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Get set for lots of interesting action as Cupid aims his arrows for a Bulls-eye. Arian aspects find most favor with romantically receptive Bovines.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Good things don't always come in small packages. You don't have to accept minor payment in return for major contributions.

Cancer (June 21-July 20) A once apparently hopeless situation now seems to take on new life. Its chance for survival depends on you. Cultivate it carefully.

Leo (July 21-Aug. 21) A strong aspect indicates an opportune time for expanding your prospects. Continue to strengthen those weak spots.

Virgo (Aug. 22-Sept. 22) A collaboration continues to work well. Mutual trust strengthens the relationship. Favorable news comes within weeks of a request.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) It's an excellent time for straightening out a series of misunderstandings. Seek out associates who may have been misled about your intentions.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) A turn towards a more conservative financial stand may be advisable. Resist those who insist you can afford a risky investment. Maybe later.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) A friend reveals long suppressed feelings that could change your relationship. Plan your reactions carefully. Some of the story is yet to be told.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You need to show more flexibility in your relationships, particularly with teenagers. Rigidity can lead to damaging breaks that can be avoided.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Keep in mind the words: "You Deserve It." Just for a while put the needs of others aside and concentrate on fulfilling those of your own.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Aspects favor movement. Expect to be offered relocation opportunities. Look forward to trips to new destinations as well as old favorites.
